

Blues for an Alabama Sky

Leland: Angel, please listen to me... The night I found you, I went to bed early, like I always do, but I couldn't sleep. I was just laying there, wide awake. So I got up and went out for a walk. I was missing that Alabama sky where the stars are so thick it's bright as day. So, I looked up between the buildings and thought I was dreaming. Didn't even look like Harlem. Stars everywhere, twinkling at me like a promise. And then I saw you. And that was all I saw. Just you. Marry me, Angel. I'll never leave you again. I swear it. We can get the license today! Right now! I think this is our luck day. Don't you?
